THE OUTLOOK FOR SILVER.

The Atlanta Constitution reviews Mr. Carter's article in the current North American Review in a very careful, plain and unmistakable manner. Mr. Carter is Chairman of the National Republican Committee, therefore what he has to say on "The Republican Outlook" is entitled to all the weight belonging to the highest authority, and Mr. Carter announces that one of the plans of the Republican platform adopted at the next Convention will be a demand for the restoration of bimetalism. The Constitution recognizes the fact that the silver question is not and will not be disposed of in the summary manner with which it has hitherto been treated.

It concludes a masterly review of the gains of free silver in these words: "By the time the next campaign opens the Republican party will swarm with silver men. We do not say they will be converted by the arguments of the bimetalists, but we do say they will take up and indorse an issue that promises them success at the polls."

On the other hand, it asks how can the Democratic party enter another campaign "professing to be in favor of making both gold and silver the standard, unless it had in the meantime done everything in its power to carry out the solemn pledge made in 1892?"

It would be hard to put the whole situation into fewer words, or a clearer light. The people have two years in which to choose the party with which they intend to affiliate. There are still two years of grace during which the Democratic party may make an effort to redeem its broken pledges, but there is not the faintest hope in the world that it will do so. If, as the Constitution says, "its speakers and its candidates would be hooted in the West" in case of its failure to "coin silver at a party and on equal terms with gold" then the orators and nominees of two years hence may know what is in store for them. The advocates of silver have nothing to hope, and they expect nothing from the party in power.

The danger to bimetalism is in the very fact pointed out by this writer. The cause of silver is gaining in Republican ranks and the leaders of that party, "while not converted by the arguments of the bimetalists," will only be too glad to indorse any issue that will hoodwink the people and give them the victory. The attitude of both the old parties calls to mind the venerable campaign story of the man who stood on the rear of the car until the conductor peremptorily informed him that the platform was not to stand on, but to get in on. The main idea is to get in; afterward pledges and promises can go the way of other campaign lies.

There are differences between the parties in many particulars, but on finance they are the best of friends. It does not matter a penny whether Sherman, or Carlisle, Harrison or Cleveland ostensibly dictates the financial policy of this country. Wall street is absolute in either event. Even if the rank and file of the old parties were true bimetalists the result would be the same under the present leaders.

Both the old parties were pledged to "the larger use of gold and silver" in the platforms of 1892; both of them placed in nomination men who were acknowledged and uncompromising enemies of silver. Surely one such object lesson is enough. Republicanism and Democracy have been weighed and found wanting. The People's party is the only hope of the people. Every effort must be made to strengthen the support of the white metal in the House and Senate. Contraction has led us to the brink of ruin, and revolution is staring us in the face. There must be a change, but the old seesaw of the old and worn out "issues," must give way to a real and radical awakening in the Government at Washington.—Denver News.

Brained with a Club.

San Diego, April 27.—Information has been received of a murder which was committed about the 16th inst. at Pala, a settlement in the interior of this county. Ramon, a young half-breed Indian, brained his wife with a club, afterwards carrying the body to the hills, where he left it under a mesquite bush. It was found by ranchers Monday. The flesh had been eaten away by coyotes and little was left by which to identify the remains.
